UNCLE ABE.

We are having some unsettled weather on account of the men of this place getting their wives plenty of wood. I guess how to be happy through marriage is a set of rules that have lately been developed in a suit in court which is followed out, would enable men to make their wives happy. These rules found in a letter put in evidence run as follows: If your wife is pretty tell her so, if she is saucy kiss her, if she is a good cook commend her, if she is lonely stay at home with her. A corresponding rule has been already given to wives to make husbands happy it is not so sentimental but its simple and practical, "Feed the brute."

The travelers has return. When Jared Sparklin returned from his trip to Europe the crowd in the store waited for his story with envious anticipations.

They knew he would brag and they did not know how to bring about that humiliation which was necessary to satisfy their natured prejudice against a young man who had been fortunate enough to visit a foreign county. Jared come and met the crowd. Uncle Dan and the rest told him they were mighty glad to see him back and wanted to know all about his voyage and his experiences. Jared accomodated them, after he had given a valuable and exciting account of everything. Uncle Dan asked: you went to Paris I suppose? Jared replied that he did, and then described the city and its sights. Did you get to France? Asked uncle Dan seriously. Jared pitied the ignorance and after explaining that Paris was the capitol of France, told what he had seen in that country. I guess you went over to the continent said uncle Dan. A look of real pain crossed the traveler's face, but he promptly enlightened the dumb villagers. My you have seen a lot said uncle Dan in admiration. Paris, France, England and the Continent, and all them places. I guess you will some of these days be taking a trip to Europe. Then it was when Jared left, and the crowd put on their hats and went home satisfied.

Health of this community is very good.

W. A. Boston is improving after having a serious pain in his right side.

Bradley No. 10 Edge Drop.

The drop is accurate—any desired number of kernels can be dropped in a hill—special plates being furnished for that purpose, when desired. It is the only planter that has a plunger in the feed tube, which forces the corn out of the tube so that clogging and consequent failure to drop correctly is impossible. Fast driving does not scatter the corn, because the foot is so constructed that a reserve hill-deposit, is always held two inches from the mouth of the foot. In other makes of planters, on account of falling 12 or more inches, the corn scatters at the least variance of the speed of team. Plates can be changed without removing the seed—the tip-box making this possible. No more tired arms, nor blistered hands from releasing check wire—Automatic Check-wire Release does away with this. The Bradley No. 10 is the favorite in all sections. Call and see it. It costs nothing to examine it, and we are glad to answer all questions. Come in and give us your opinion.
